The Scientific Method

1. Ask a question (Are “COVID-19 vaccines” safe & effective?)
 2. Conduct research
 3. Construct a hypothesis
 4. Test the hypothesis with an experiment, including:
 - a. Materials

2. What is a vaccine?

The CDC's definition of a vaccine prior to September 2, 2021 was "A product that stimulates a person's immune system to produce immunity to a specific disease, protecting the person from that disease." The phrase "to produce immunity" was removed on September 2, 2021 according to the Internet Archive snapshots. It shows this definition has not changed since at least 2015.ⁱ

What was the CDC's motive for its timing on changing the definition of a vaccine right when pharmaceutical companies were pushing to release their covid-19 products? Did they not feel confident that the proposed covid-19 product would "produce immunity" according to their definition? Is it possible that "lowering the bar" or broadening the definition of a vaccine would help interested parties to justify and validate calling the covid-19 injections a "vaccine?"

Because this appears to be an intentional deception and because there is insufficient evidence that the products produce any immunity or meet the normal definition of a vaccine, the remainder of this ebook will only use quotes to refer to the Covid-19 "vaccine".

Coronavirus disease (COVID-19): Serology

9 June 2020 | Q&A

What is herd immunity?

Herd immunity is the indirect protection from an infectious disease that happens when a population is immune either through vaccination or immunity developed through previous infection. This means that even people who haven't been infected, or in whom an infection hasn't triggered an immune response, they are protected because people around them who are immune can act as buffers between them and an infected person. The threshold for establishing herd immunity for COVID-19 is not yet clear.

What is herd immunity?

'Herd immunity', also known as 'population immunity', is a concept used for vaccination, in which a population can be protected from a certain virus if a threshold of vaccination is reached.

Herd immunity is achieved by protecting people from a virus, not by exposing them to it. Read the Director-General's 12 October media briefing speech for more detail.

WHO and other agencies also changed their definitions of vaccines and immunity near the covid-19 “vaccine” rollout.

Are these claims true that the covid-19 vaccine are “safe”? If so, what is their criteria or definition for the word “safe”?

Full Definition of safe (Entry 1 of 2)

- 1 : free from harm or risk : UNHURT
- 2 a : secure from threat of danger, harm, or loss

The word “safe” according to Merriam-Webster dictionary means “free from harm or risk.” This means there is no risk. So, is it true that the “covid-19 vaccines” have zero risk?

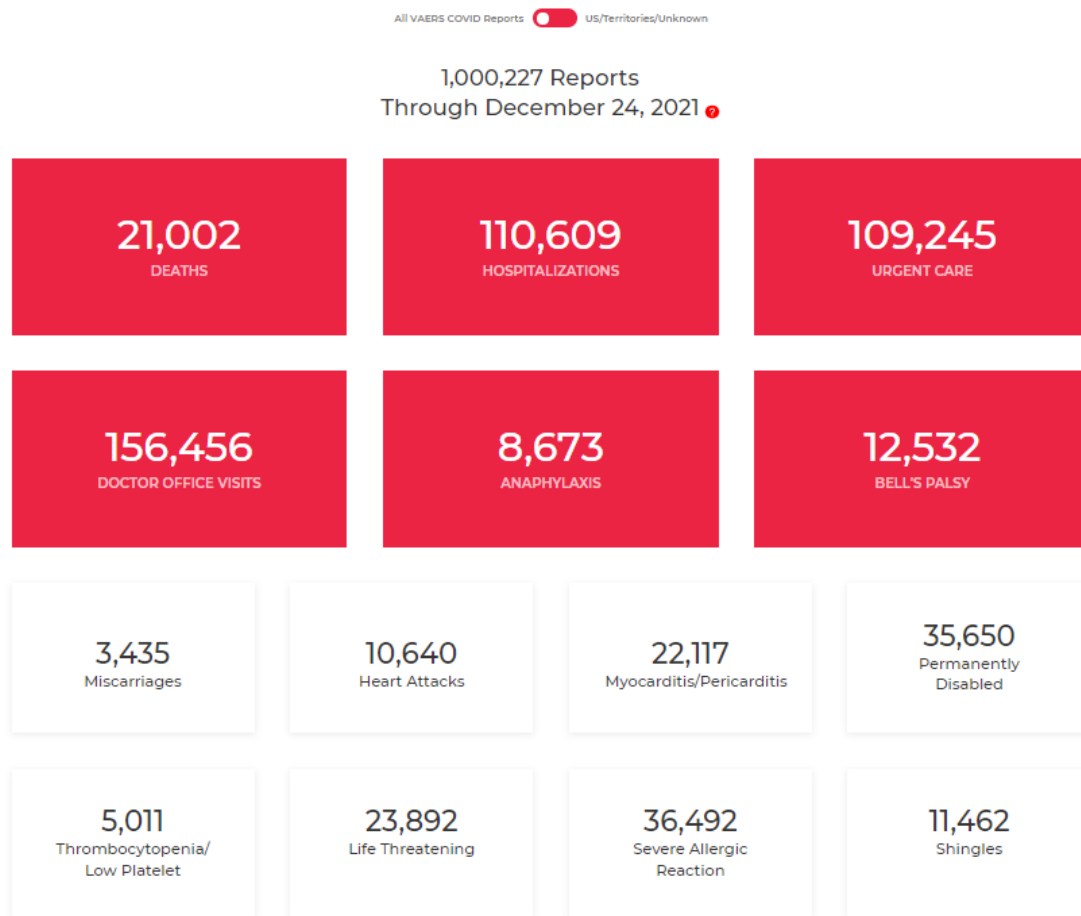

If so, how can we scientifically measure whether this is true or not?

One way would be if there were zero reports of injuries or death in any of the government databases. If it’s discovered that there are reports (at least one) of injuries or death from it, occurring anywhere in the world, even if unofficial, then this statement about it being “safe” cannot be confirmed as a true statement. Is this a fair and logical expectation?

Fortunately, various regulators track adverse events for vaccines, including the CDC (VAERS), FDA (FAERS), and Medicare. So, all someone would need to do is to search one of these databases, search social media, search scientific journals, search clinic trial and research study reports, and if no mentions of any adverse reactions are found, then the hypothesis that a “vaccine” could be safe would not yet be disproven.

Following the scientific method, we are creating a hypothesis that the covid-19 vaccines are “safe” and that no one has ever been injured or killed from it. To determine this, we will conduct a research experiment to find any evidence showing otherwise, then will base our conclusions on the found evidence. Let’s first look at the CDC’s data about it.

4. What does the CDC say about the “vaccines”?

Does the CDC’s VAERS database show any adverse effects to covid-19 “vaccines”?

According to the CDC’s VAERS database which openvaers.com tabulates, as of 12-24-2021 there have been more than 1 million injuries (adverse reactions) and 21,002 deaths have been reported from the Covid-19 “vaccine” just in the USA. This first piece of evidence refutes the hypothesis that they are safe. Even if it was only 1 injury that would refute the claim, but more than 1 million reported injuries is a very large number. Such a high number of injuries would normally sound loud alarm bells if it were in any other context. If this figure is true, how could anyone honestly claim it is safe? Let’s continue to follow the evidence anyway and see where it leads us.

“How do we know these figures are true and not just fake, unconfirmed reports?”

We could read some excerpts from the reports and see if sounds plausible or falsified. Each report begins with a VAERS ID number which appears it can be looked up in VAERS for further detail.ⁱⁱ

These reports appear to be specific in detail and dates. They appear to be reported by health providers as well as by some family relatives. Family likely wouldn't describe their loved one as a resident, patient, or PT. These reports seem factual, concise and to the point, not appearing to have any narrative or agenda, such as an anti-vaccine bias. They are also heartbreaking to read, as these people probably took a vaccine thinking it would help them stay safe, but instead they died.

“Yeah, but maybe they died of other causes; maybe they were going to die anyway?”

Maybe, or maybe not. According to the CDC, most deaths are within the first 48 hours of the injection. Many reports of death after injection are from healthy individuals, including young people and athletes. While it may not be 100% confirmed that the deaths were caused by the “vaccine” it also can't be 100% proven it wasn't the cause. Wouldn't it be prudent to follow the scientific method to investigate further before potentially putting more lives at risk by pushing something that could be causing it?

Health professionals by law are required to report such adverse reactions to VAERS. However, there is evidence of many health professionals not reporting to VAERS due to the extra time and paperwork required. A new scientific question must now be asked: is it possible that the VAERS figures could actually be an underestimation and do not reflect the real total of adverse reactions? What if the real number of deaths and injuries is multiples higher?

How safe is the Covid-19 “vaccine” compared to past vaccines?

According to the CDC’s same VAERS data, after only a few months of it being released, the covid-19 “vaccines” have already killed more than all other vaccines in the history of United States. If this is true, why aren’t we seeing this reported in the main stream media?

Criteria for vaccines in the past has been stringent, where if only a few people died, a vaccine would be recalled. Vaccine testing and approval process normally takes up to 10-15 years to reach the market, according to historyofvaccines.orgⁱⁱⁱ. The normal safety testing process appears to have been bypassed for the covid-19 “vaccines.”

Because the covid-19 “vaccines” indeed have reports of injury and death, can it be truthfully called “safe?”

According to CDC statistics, most deaths occur within the first 48hrs of the injection.

Side effects from the covid-19 “vaccine”?

Should this spike in myocarditis (heart swelling) be considered a red flag worthy of being investigated? Why do you suppose so few journalists from the main stream media seem willing to investigate a significant increase in health effects that started in 2021 just after the “vaccine” was introduced?

Should anyone be alarmed that myocarditis has been virtually non-existent in human beings until 2021 where the reports appear to be more than all past years in history combined? And what possibly could have been the change in 2021? Could it have been the covid-19 “vaccine” or is this just a coincidence? Under normal conditions, wouldn’t such a red flag be worthy of being investigated by journalists, government regulators, and elected officials?

4. What does the CDC say about the “vaccines”?

“But the CDC said it’s safe, and little to no side effects, right?”

CDC’s website has a page for covid-19 “vaccine” allergic reactions, including “severe” ones. Were there really so many allergic reactions that they made a dedicated web page just for it? Is something truly “safe” if someone may have a “severe” allergic reaction to it?

The above categories are from the CDC website for the covid-19 “vaccine.” If it is indeed ‘safe’ why would they have multiple pages dedicated to its side effects, such as myocarditis, allergies, complications for pregnant women? Does not the existence of these potential adverse effects pages mean there is a level of risk? And if there is risk, doesn’t that by definition mean it cannot be 100% safe?

Possible Side Effects After Getting a COVID-19 Vaccine

Updated June 24, 2021 Languages * Print

COVID-19 vaccination will help protect you from getting COVID-19. You may have some side effects, which are normal signs that your body is building protection. These side effects may affect your ability to do daily activities, but they should go away in a few days. Some people have no side effects.

Common Side Effects

On the arm where you got the shot:

- Pain
- Redness
- Swelling

Throughout the rest of your body:

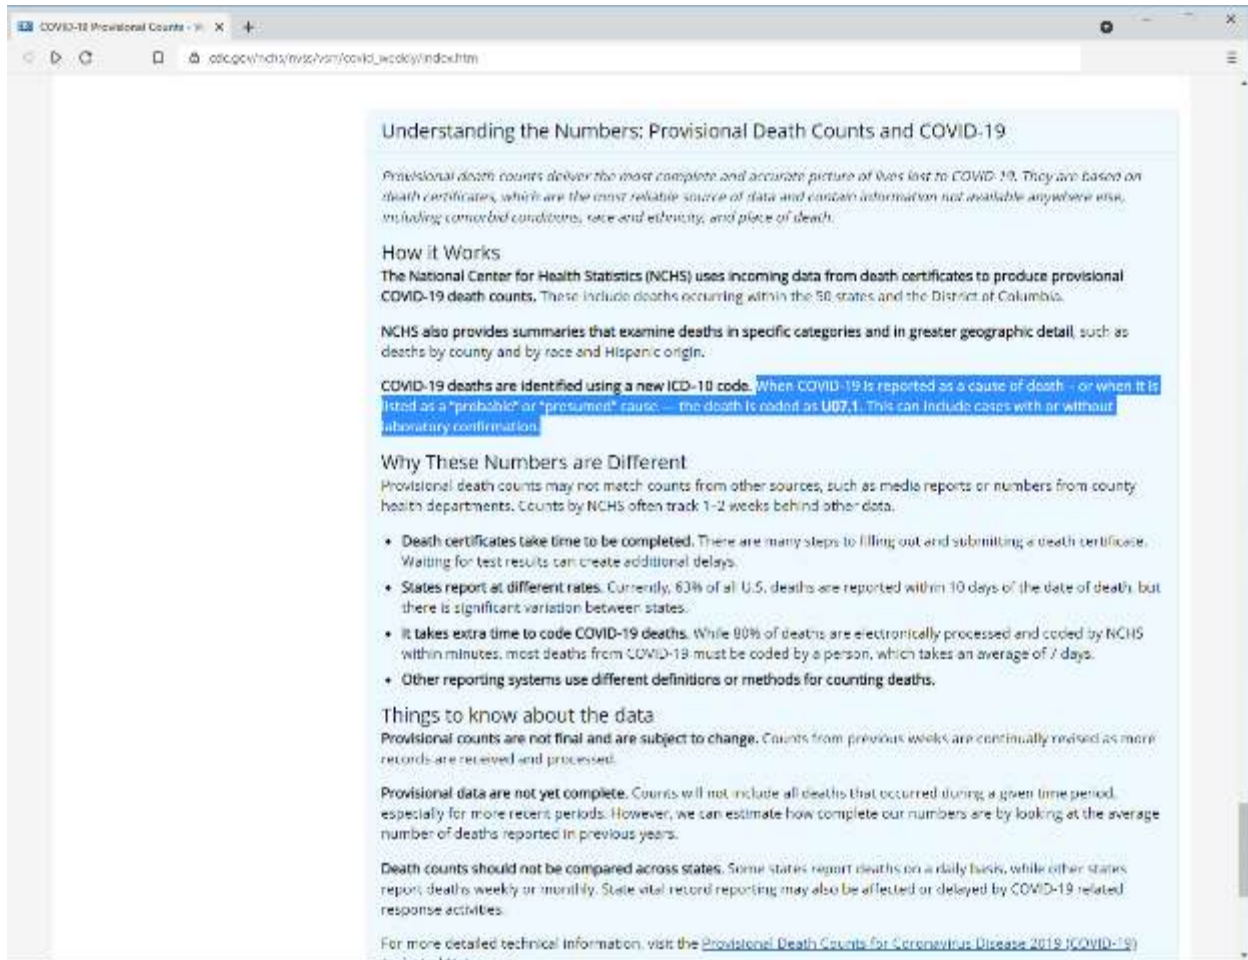

- Tiredness
- Headache
- Muscle pain
- Chills
- Fever
- Nausea

If you had a severe or immediate allergic reaction after getting the first dose of an mRNA COVID-19 vaccine, you should not get a second dose of either of the mRNA COVID-19 vaccines. Learn about getting a different type of vaccine after an allergic reaction.

The CDC repeats how 'rare' it is for anyone to ever have adverse effects, but this page admits covid-19 vaccines have side effects, and even titles the heading, "Common Side Effects."

It says it includes tiredness, chills, pain, fever, nausea. Aren't those some of the same symptoms of covid-19? If the goal is to avoid the symptoms of covid-19, and because these "vaccine" negative symptoms are "common," is it truly worth the risk to get these through the "vaccine"?

This CDC page says that covid-19 only has to be ‘probable’ or ‘presumed’ and is labeled as U07.1 and isn’t verified or confirmed. This sounds like an assumption. Because medical providers make more money by labelling deaths with a certain code, and because no one verifies it, and because the US medical industry already has a reputation for corruption and grossly overcharging people, wouldn’t this encourage fraud? Under these conditions, can the covid-19 death count by the CDC be trusted?

In addition, should we be suspicious that the flu and pneumonia practically disappeared in 2020? How about rapid PCR test known to have false positives. So, is it possible that a percentage of the death count the CDC offers is from taking normal deaths and counting them as covid-19 deaths?

CDC recommends people in areas with substantial or high #COVID19 spread wear a mask in public indoor settings, even if fully vaccinated.

Visit CDC's COVID Data Tracker to find out what level of COVID-19 spread your area has: bit.ly/2Hw1EZZ.

DELTA VARIANT IS SURGING: IT HAS QUICKLY GROWN FROM LESS THAN 1% OF CASES IN MAY TO MORE THAN 80% NOW.

- Delta spreads about twice as easily from one person to another compared to previous variants.
- Because new evidence shows some vaccinated people can get or spread Delta, CDC recommends everyone in areas with substantial or high spread wear a mask.
- Most spread is among unvaccinated people and in areas with low vaccination rates. Vaccines help prevent Delta from spreading further.

 Tip

This CDC tweet admits that vaccinated people can get and spread Delta. This is a change of tune from previously when it was said that vaccinated cannot get or spread covid-19. That was the premise for them wanting everyone to get vaccinated, but it turns out that cannot be entirely true.

4. What does the CDC say about the “vaccines”?

The CDC on this page admits that people have died from the covid-19 vaccine, yet continues to claim its 'safe'. Is it normal to claim that something is safe that has killed people? If a poisonous hamburger kills someone, is the hamburger safe to eat? If a lion kills a person, is the lion safe?

This CDC page omits that more than 1 million injuries have already been reported and that a % of these people may still die from future complications. This info also appears out of date as the reported deaths are nearly triple of this figure now.

Some people have no side effects. Many people have reported side effects that may affect their ability to do daily activities, but they should go away within a few days.

Are the Vaccines Safe?

What You Need to Know

- COVID-19 vaccines are safe and effective.
- Millions of people in the United States have received COVID-19 vaccines under the most intense safety monitoring in U.S. history.
- CDC recommends everyone 12 years and older get vaccinated as soon as possible to help protect against COVID-19 and the related, potentially severe complications that can occur.
- CDC, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA), and other federal agencies are monitoring the safety of COVID-19 vaccines.
- Adverse events described on this page have been reported to the Vaccine Adverse Event Reporting System \(VAERS\) ↗.
- VAERS accepts reports of any adverse event following any vaccination.
- Reports of adverse events to VAERS following vaccination, including deaths, do not necessarily mean that a vaccine caused a health problem.

4. What does the CDC say about the “vaccines”?

What You Need to Know

- COVID-19 vaccines are safe and effective.

The CDC page on “adverse effects” says the vaccines are “safe and effective” but if you scroll down the same web page and it shows a high number of deaths reported by the Covid-19 vaccines- more than 21,000 deaths currently reported.

Most people consider the school shootings at Virginia Tech, Sandy Hook Elementary, Columbine, and Stoneman Douglas in Parkland, Florida to be tragic disasters. Many consider the sinking of the Titanic to be a disaster, where 1,503 died, Hurricane Katrina (est 1,836 deaths), Hurricane Maria that decimated Puerto Rico (es. 2,975 deaths), or 9/11 attacks with approximately 2,996 deaths.

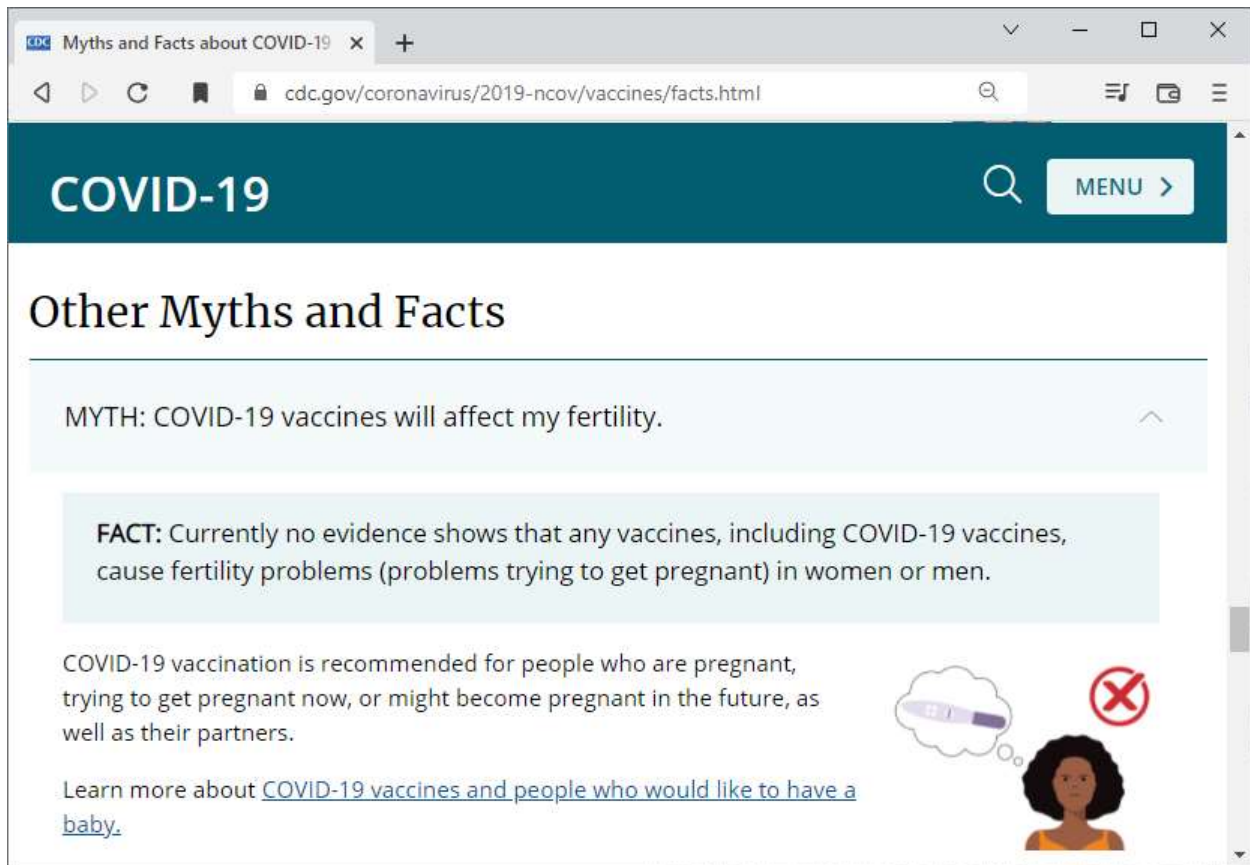

The vaccine deaths have caused more death than all of these disasters combined.

The previous incidents most people had little or no way to prevent it, but the “vaccine” injections are absolutely preventable and intentionally done. Currently, more than 21,000 deaths are the ones reported by the VAERS for the US, which does not include all the deaths. Is it honest to call something safe and effective that has already killed far more innocent people than all of these disasters? Is it ethical to promote something that may kill or injure them?

Why does the people controlling the CDC website information feel it must push the safety of the experimental non-approved covid-19 vaccines? Notice how they placed in bold how it is “safe and effective” and how it is in bold how the adverse reactions “are rare.” Are they overcompensating? Would an unbiased information site do this?

The CDC web page is <https://www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-ncov/vaccines/safety/adverse-events.html> and an archive of it is <https://archive.is/LSIVB> in case they decide to change the information.

Is the CDC a credible source of truth?

The screenshot shows a web browser window with the URL cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-ncov/vaccines/facts.html. The page has a dark teal header with 'COVID-19' and a search icon. Below the header is the section 'Other Myths and Facts'. A light blue box contains the text: 'MYTH: COVID-19 vaccines will affect my fertility.' Below this, another light blue box contains the text: 'FACT: Currently no evidence shows that any vaccines, including COVID-19 vaccines, cause fertility problems (problems trying to get pregnant) in women or men.' To the right of the text is an illustration of a woman with a thought bubble containing a syringe and a red 'X' over it. Below the text is a link: 'Learn more about COVID-19 vaccines and people who would like to have a baby.'

This CDC web page falsely suggests that men can get pregnant. Notice the phrase “fertility problems (problems trying to get pregnant) in women or men.” Afterwards they don’t say women who are pregnant, but “people” who are pregnant. Is it possible that a political or religious ideology may have influenced them to write this? If the CDC is willing to go against science and be untruthful, for possible political and ideological reasons, then can we truly trust what it says about covid-19?

“The CDC’s VAERS death statistics of covid-19 vaccines are just one data source, right? Are there other sources showing the approximate deaths?”

Yes, the FDA has their own vaccine adverse reaction tracking database, FAERS. World Health Organization (WHO) has one called Vigibase. Medicare has a tracking system that also show deaths from the covid-19 “vaccines”. Some of these sources are not as open and may require a legal FOIA request to attain the data. Other countries have their own systems.

Serious questions have been raised as to why medicine regulators have not pulled the Covid-19 vaccines from distribution to the general public after data on the Australian Government site revealed that there have been nine times as many deaths reported as adverse reactions to the Covid-19 vaccines over a period of 7 months than deaths due to all other available vaccines combined over a period of 50 years.

Covid-19 in Wales: A third of positive cases are unvaccinated

13 minutes ago

Nearly 50% of those over 60 and 84% of those under 60 have been vaccinated.

A third of people with confirmed Covid cases in Wales in the past week were unvaccinated, according to new figures released by Public Health Wales (PHW).

The figures also showed 99% of people who tested positive for Covid in the past week in Wales were under 60. Of these, 37% were unvaccinated.

Nearly 13% of hospital patients with confirmed Covid were unvaccinated.

Is this another way of saying that 2/3 of all positive covid-19 cases in Wales are “vaccinated?”

Latest UK PHE Vaccine Surveillance Report figures on Covid cases show that doubly vaccinated 40-70 year olds have lost 40% of their immune system capability compared to unvaccinated people. Their immune systems are deteriorating at around 5% per week (between 2.7% and 8.7%). If this continues then 30-50 year olds will have 100% immune system degradation, zero viral defence by Christmas and all doubly vaccinated people over 30 will have lost their immune systems by March next year.

5,522 people have died within 28 days of having a Covid-19 Vaccine in Scotland according to Public Health Scotland

BY THE EXPOSÉ ON JULY 16, 2021 • 130 COMMENTS

Public Health Scotland have revealed that 5,522 people have died within twenty-eight days of having a Covid-19 vaccine within the past 6 months in Scotland alone.

Due to dozens of freedom of information requests being made, asking Public Health Scotland (PHS) to provide the current total number of deaths of any individual who has died within 28 days of having a Covid-19 vaccine, PHS decided the best way forward was to publish the information routinely and periodically within their Covid-19 statistical report.

Teen star rushed to hospital after Pfizer vaccine: 'So much pain'

A NSW teen says she's been hospitalised with blood clots after receiving the Pfizer vaccine she "never wanted" – yet health authorities say there is no link yet between the jab and the rare condition she's been diagnosed with

"That night I woke up so sick – vomiting, fever, wet in sweat, heart palpitations, headache, sore muscles and joints like hell, blurry vision. I was in so much pain at this point crying," she explained.

From December 14, 2020, to February 28, 2021, we used data from the "v-safe after vaccination health checker" surveillance system, the v-safe pregnancy registry, and the Vaccine Adverse Event Reporting System (VAERS) to characterize the initial safety of mRNA Covid-19 vaccines in pregnant persons.

Results

A total of 35,691 v-safe participants 16 to 54 years of age identified as pregnant. Injection-site pain was reported more frequently among pregnant persons than among nonpregnant women, whereas headache, myalgia, chills, and fever were reported less frequently. Among 3938 participants enrolled in the v-safe pregnancy registry, 827 had a completed pregnancy, of which 115 (13.9%) resulted in a pregnancy loss and 712 (86.1%) resulted in a live birth (mostly among participants with vaccination in the third trimester). Adverse neonatal outcomes included preterm birth (in 9.4%) and small size for gestational age (in 3.2%); no neonatal deaths were reported. Although not directly comparable, calculated proportions of adverse pregnancy and neonatal outcomes in persons vaccinated against Covid-19 who had a completed pregnancy were similar to incidences reported in studies involving pregnant women that were conducted before the Covid-19 pandemic. Among 221 pregnancy-related adverse events reported to the VAERS, the most frequently reported event was spontaneous abortion (46 cases).

Conclusions

Preliminary findings did not show obvious safety signals among pregnant persons who received mRNA Covid-19 vaccines. However, more longitudinal follow-up, including follow-up of large numbers of women vaccinated earlier in pregnancy, is necessary to inform maternal, pregnancy, and infant outcomes.

The first coronavirus disease 2019 (Covid-19) vaccines available in the United States were messenger RNA (mRNA) vaccines: BNT162b2 (Pfizer-BioNTech) and mRNA-1273 (Moderna). In December 2020, the vaccines were granted Emergency Use Authorization (EUA) by the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) as a two-dose series, 3 weeks apart for Pfizer-BioNTech and 1 month apart for Moderna, and were recommended for use by the Advisory Committee on Immunization Practices (ACIP).^{1,2} Pregnant persons were excluded from preauthorization clinical trials, and only limited human data on safety during pregnancy were available at the time of authorization. However, pregnant persons with Covid-19 are at increased risk for severe illness (e.g., resulting in admission to an intensive care unit, extracorporeal membrane oxygenation, or mechanical ventilation) and death, as compared with nonpregnant persons of reproductive age.³ Furthermore, pregnant persons with Covid-19 might be at increased risk for adverse pregnancy outcomes, such as preterm birth, as compared with pregnant persons without Covid-19.⁴ The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) and ACIP are collaborating with the American College of Obstetrics and Gynecology (ACOG) to conduct a real-world study, which include the 'CDC v-safe COVID-19 Pregnancy Registry Team' were

CDC manipulated study data to show the Covid-19 Vaccines are safe for Pregnant Women when in reality 4 in 5 suffered a miscarriage

BY THE DAILY EXPOSE ON JULY 6, 2021 (21 COMMENTS)

Data has been manipulated by scientists carrying out a real-world study for the CDC to show that the Covid-19 vaccines are safe for use during pregnancy, however an analysis of the actual findings shows that 4 out of 5 pregnant women vaccinated suffered a miscarriage.

The study entitled 'Preliminary Findings of mRNA Covid-19 Vaccine Safety in Pregnant Persons', has been published in the New England Journal of Medicine. From December 14, 2020, to February 28, 2021, data from the 'v-safe after vaccination health checker' surveillance system, the v-safe pregnancy registry, and the Vaccine Adverse Event Reporting System (VAERS) was used to characterize the initial safety of mRNA Covid-19 vaccines in pregnant persons.

The authors conclusion of the study is as follows -

Preliminary findings did not show obvious safety signals among pregnant persons who received mRNA Covid-19 vaccines. However, more longitudinal follow-up, including follow-up of large numbers of women vaccinated earlier in pregnancy, is necessary to inform maternal, pregnancy, and infant outcomes.

“But if people are really getting killed or injured from the covid “vaccine” why haven’t I seen any evidence of this on social media?”

There is evidence, but it appears that main stream social media platforms are censoring and removing such reports such as Facebook, Twitter, YouTube, and Reddit. There is a risk of being banned if someone posts something negative about the “vaccines.” Conservative media appear to publish some information about it, but it still seems limited. The following is one of the inventors of the technology for mRNA vaccines who was recently banned from Twitter for the tweet you see below.

“Despite the risk, the covid-19 “vaccine” is still better than not taking it, right?”

Let’s look at the evidence.

Sweden didn’t lock down the economy, didn’t mandate masks, didn’t push vaccines, whereas, Israel did. So, given the countries had opposite strategies, which has had more covid-19 death?

The data is plotted on the chart below. Israel has had multiples higher deaths from covid-19 than Sweden. Is it possible that masks, lockdowns, and vaccines actually play a role in spreading covid-19?

Israel vs Sweden deaths:

Question: Is it possible that the masks and “vaccines” actually don’t work as hoped and actually have a risk of harming people’s immune systems? If this is true, would anyone be willing to follow the scientific method to conduct this experiment to confirm if this is true? And if this is true, in this politically charged and divided culture, would anyone be willing to take the social risk to admit this?

Some reports suggest that the covid-19 vaccines actually increase your viral load and harm your immune system.

Transmission of SARS-CoV-2 Delta Variant Among Vaccinated Healthcare Workers, Vietnam

Abstract

Background: Data on breakthrough SARS-CoV-2 Delta variant infections are limited.

Methods: We studied breakthrough infections among healthcare workers of a major infectious diseases hospital in Vietnam. We collected demographics, vaccination history and results of PCR diagnosis alongside clinical data. We measured SARS-CoV-2 (neutralizing) antibodies at diagnosis, and at week 1, 2 and 3 after diagnosis. We sequenced the viruses using ARTIC protocol.

Findings: Between 11th–25th June 2021 (week 7–8 after dose 2), 69 healthcare workers were tested positive for SARS-CoV-2. 62 participated in the clinical study. 49 were (pre)symptomatic with one requiring oxygen supplementation. All recovered uneventfully. 23 complete-genome sequences were obtained. They all belonged to the Delta variant, and were phylogenetically distinct from the contemporary Delta variant sequences obtained from community transmission cases, suggestive of ongoing transmission between the workers. Viral loads of breakthrough Delta variant infection cases were 251 times higher than those of cases infected with old strains detected between March–April 2020. Time from diagnosis to PCR negative was 8–33 days (median: 21). Neutralizing antibody levels after vaccination and at diagnosis of the cases were lower than those in the matched uninfected controls. There was no correlation between vaccine-induced neutralizing antibody levels and viral loads or the development of symptoms.

Interpretation: Breakthrough Delta variant infections are associated with high viral loads, prolonged PCR positivity, and low levels of vaccine-induced neutralizing antibodies, explaining the transmission between the vaccinated people. Physical distancing measures remain critical to reduce SARS-CoV-2 Delta variant transmission.

Funding: Wellcome (106680/B/14/Z and 204904/Z/16/Z).

Declaration of Interest: None to declare.

Ethical Approval: The study was approved by the Institutional Review Board of HTD and the Oxford Tropical Research Ethics Committee, University of Oxford, UK.

This scientific study of “vaccinated” people found they had 251 times the viral load of covid-19 than those “unvaccinated” in 2020 before the vaccine existed.

This data is interesting. The highlighted groups were vaccinated first (Dec 27, 2020) compared to the others. The infection rate among 0-14 days after the first shot is higher than the unvax'd people. This indicates that vaccines helped in virus spreading.

ABSTRACT

Three COVID-19 vaccines in the US have been released for sale by the FDA under Emergency Use Authorization (EUA) based on a clinical trial design employing a surrogate primary endpoint for health, severe infections with COVID-19. This clinical trial design has been proven dangerously misleading. Many fields of medicine, oncology for example, have abandoned the use of disease specific endpoints for the primary endpoint of pivotal clinical trials (cancer deaths for example) and have adopted "all cause mortality or morbidity" as the proper scientific endpoint of a clinical trial. Pivotal clinical trial data from the 3 marketed COVID-19 vaccines was reanalyzed using "all cause severe morbidity", a scientific measure of health, as the primary endpoint. "All cause severe morbidity" in the treatment group and control group was calculated by adding all severe events reported in the clinical trials. Severe events included both severe infections with COVID-19 and all other severe adverse events in the treatment arm and control arm respectively. This analysis gives reduction in severe COVID-19 infections the same weight as adverse events of equivalent severity. Results prove that none of the vaccines provide a health benefit and all pivotal trials show a statically significant increase in "all cause severe morbidity" in the vaccinated group compared to the placebo group. The Moderna immunized group suffered 3,042 more severe events than the control group ($p=0.00001$). The Pfizer data was grossly incomplete but data provided showed the vaccination group suffered 90 more severe events than the control group ($p=0.000014$), when only including "unsolicited" adverse events. The Janssen immunized group suffered 264 more severe events than the control group ($p=0.00001$). These findings contrast the manufacturers' inappropriate surrogate endpoints: Janssen claims that their vaccine prevents 6 cases of severe COVID-19 requiring medical attention out of 19,630 immunized; Pfizer claims their vaccine prevents 8 cases of severe COVID-19 out of 21,720 immunized; Moderna claims its vaccine prevents 30 cases of severe COVID-19 out of 15,210 immunized. Based on this data it is all but a certainty that mass COVID-19 immunization is hurting the health of the population in general. Scientific principles dictate that the mass immunization with COVID-19 vaccines must be halted immediately because we face a looming vaccine induced public health catastrophe.

Introduction

For decades, true scientists have warned that pivotal clinical trial designs for vaccines are dangerously flawed and outdated

[1]. Vaccines have been promoted and widely utilized under the false claim they have been shown to improve health. However, this claim is only a philosophical argument and not science based. In a true scientific fashion to show a health benefit one would need to show fewer overall deaths during an extended period in the vaccinated group compared to a control group. Less stringent

Study: COVID Cases are Increasing in Counties with Higher Vaccination Rates, Declining in Counties with Lower Vaccination Rates

Jul 27, 2021

An analysis in California has shown that counties with above-average vaccination rates have higher COVID-19 case totals, which drives a stake through the heart of the propaganda line that the unvaccinated are causing a new wave of cases.

'Leaky' Vaccines Can Produce Stronger Versions of Viruses

By studying chickens, researchers say they have proven the theory that more virulent viruses can evolve from so-called "leaky" vaccines.

The current debate over vaccinating toddlers is small potatoes compared to the potential risks of using "leaky" vaccines to prevent disease.

Abstract

Could some vaccines drive the evolution of more virulent pathogens? Conventional wisdom is that natural selection will remove highly lethal pathogens if host death greatly reduces transmission. Vaccines that keep hosts alive but still allow transmission could thus allow very virulent strains to circulate in a population. Here we show experimentally that immunization of chickens against Marek's disease virus enhances the fitness of more virulent strains, making it possible for hyperpathogenic strains to transmit. Immunity elicited by direct vaccination or by maternal vaccination prolongs host survival but does not prevent infection, viral replication or transmission, thus extending the infectious periods of strains otherwise too lethal to persist. Our data show that anti-disease vaccines that do not prevent transmission can create conditions that promote the emergence of pathogen strains that cause more severe disease in unvaccinated hosts.

Author Summary

There is a theoretical expectation that some types of vaccines could prompt the evolution of more virulent ("hotter") pathogens. This idea follows from the notion that natural selection removes pathogen strains that are so "hot" that they kill their hosts and, therefore, themselves. Vaccines that let the hosts survive but do not prevent the spread of the pathogen relax this selection, allowing the evolution of hotter pathogens to occur. This type of vaccine is often called a leaky vaccine. When vaccines prevent transmission, as is the case for nearly all

History suggests that it's possible for a vaccine to increase the spread of a virus.^{ivv}

Just to be clear scientifically, it is the vaccinated NOT the unvaccinated spreading the mutant variants. This is from inoculating during the pandemic with a poor neutralizing "vaccine". This is what has happened with numerous other "leaky" (non-neutralizing) vaccines. The classic example of this is Marek's disease in chickens. I warned the CDC of this in April of this year. Other scientists warned the CDC as well as similar scientific entities world-wide, months earlier. Yet here we are. So please spare me the propaganda that the unvaccinated are the ones "causing" this because they are not and there is a clearly defined mechanistic pathway for how the vaccinated are creating the mutants. The solution would be to STOP vaccinating with these terrible GTs and start treating everyone at high risk and those not at high risk who are symptomatic with cheap safe and effective hydroxychloroquine and ivermectin until the virus is driven out. This would stop the binding, replication and transmission of the virus as well as ameliorate some pathogenic processes due to spike in the vaxxed. Oh and it would cost virtually nothing... and therein lies the problem!

This is why we wait years for approval

“Is it true that aborted baby parts used to make these covid-19 vaccines?”

Evidence shows this to be true to some degree. While the manufacturers deny that the vaccines currently contain aborted fetal tissue, evidence shows some manufacturers may have used aborted fetal tissue cells for the initial development and testing of the covid-19 vaccines. The following chart attempts to explain this.

8. FDA “Approval”

“Ok, but the covid-19 vaccine has been FDA approved and is now safe, right?”

No, there is no approved covid-19 vaccine on the market in the United States.^{vi}

The media and other spokespeople have misled people on this point.

Just because a group of government leaders say something about a substance doesn’t mean the substance is suddenly “safe.” Based on words spoken from an FDA representative, the “vaccine” hasn’t magically changed its physical composition. It’s the same substance. And just because the FDA makes a remark about it doesn’t mean an unknown large amount of people haven’t still died from it. They won’t come back from the grave just because a FDA official may have blessed the “vaccine.”

With great political pressure the FDA announced it granted an Emergency Use Authorization (EUA) of a Pfizer-BioNTech covid-19 vaccine called “COMIRNATY,” but that product is not available for anyone to use in the United States. More testing about the health risks must first be done, before any normal FDA approvals can take place.^{vii} The FDA claimed “The products are legally distinct with certain differences that do not impact safety or effectiveness.”^{viii}

Page 12 – Pfizer Inc.

- This product has not been approved or licensed by FDA, but has been authorized for emergency use by FDA, under an EUA to prevent Coronavirus Disease 2019 (COVID-19) for use in individuals 12 years of age and older; and
- The emergency use of this product is only authorized for the duration of the declaration that circumstances exist justifying the authorization of emergency use of the medical product under Section 564(b)(1) of the FD&C Act unless the declaration is terminated or authorization revoked sooner.

A FDA approval for the covid-19 vaccine can't be completed until the year 2027 and is conditional on the outcome of a 5-year cohort study to fully assess the risks.

Pages 6, 7 & 8

“ Furthermore, the pharmacovigilance system that FDA is required to maintain under section 505(k)(3) of the FDCA is not sufficient to assess these serious risks. Therefore, based on appropriate scientific data, we have determined that you are required to conduct the following studies:

Despite no covid-19 vaccine being FDA approved for public use in the United States, the CDC still promotes it on their website, claiming it is proof of how “safe” it is.

“COVID-19 vaccines are safe and effective. COVID-19 vaccines were evaluated in tens of thousands of participants in clinical trials. The vaccines met the Food and Drug Administration’s (FDA) rigorous scientific standards for safety, effectiveness, and manufacturing quality needed to support approval or authorization of a vaccine.” From CDC web page called “Safety of COVID-19 Vaccines,” archived at: <https://archive.is/JldQq>

The CDC claimed it met the FDA’s “rigorous scientific standards for safety, effectiveness, and manufacturing quality,” but is that true? Did the FDA actually say that? If the CDC is actually neutral and unbiased, why does it sound like a marketing department of a big pharma company trying hard to make it sound positive?

Since 798,634 adverse reactions to covid-19 “vaccines” have been reported so far, including injury and death, how can their statement about ‘safety’ be true? Should they be held legally accountable for this?

A double standard by the FDA?

The FDA website says if a covid-19 treatment isn't "approved" or "authorized" by the FDA it can cause serious harm. But what about the covid-19 "vaccines"? Millions of people had already taken and were pushing the "vaccine" before the FDA granted their "emergency use" for Pfizer's COMIRNATY, which is different than the "vaccine" being pushed in the United States. Since there is no FDA approved vaccine available to the public in the United States, does this mean any unapproved covid-19 vaccines can "cause serious harm?"

Does something being "approved" by the FDA mean it automatically 'safe'?

Tobacco and Alcohol products are also regulated and 'approved' by the FDA, so does that mean they're safe? The CDC website says "tobacco is the leading preventable cause of death in the United States" that causes 480,000 deaths per year.^{ix} Alcohol causes more than 95,000 deaths in the United States per year, according to the CDC.^x

The CDC admits that only 5% of the deaths are only from covid-19. So, 95% of the deaths they prominently display are not accurate covid-19-only deaths. It says on average there are 4 'additional' causes of death. Is it possible that one of these four was the real cause of death and that covid-19 was only marked due to an inaccurate PCR test? Could there have been a financial incentive to mark unrelated deaths as covid-19 deaths?

The CDC claims on their website as of 1/6/22 that 829,740 deaths have occurred because of the covid-19 virus. However, they admit that only 5% of these deaths are only due to the covid-19 virus. This is another way of saying that 95% of the deaths reported are not solely from covid-19 virus, but from other things. How do they know the 95% deaths were 'from' covid-19 at all? If only 5% of the 829,740 deaths are only from covid-19 that is 41,487 deaths which could be considered average for a flu season in the US, but these are the deaths not just for one year but two, which could be considered low.

This text on CDC's website says they count it as covid if it has been identified with code U07.1 then it is considered a covid-19 death even if it hasn't been confirmed by a lab.

COVID-19 deaths are identified using a new ICD-10 code. When COVID-19 is reported as a cause of death – or when it is listed as a “probable” or “presumed” cause — the death is coded as U07.1. This can include cases with or without laboratory confirmation.

Why These Numbers are Different

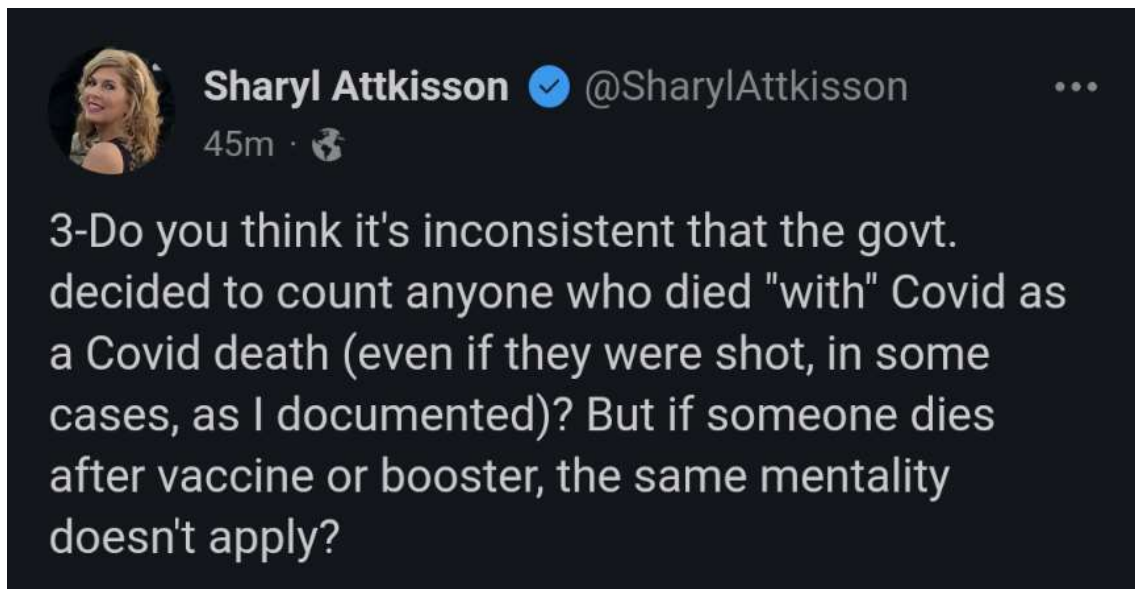

Provisional death counts may not match counts from other sources, such as media reports or numbers from county health departments. Counts by NCHS often track 1-2 weeks behind other data.

Who decides when to mark a death as covid-19 related or not? Is it at health providers' own discretion? Is it only if a PCR test has a positive result within a certain timeframe? Do they have a financial incentive to mark deaths as covid-19? If so, is it possible the deaths may be over counted and inaccurate?

The CDC stopped tracking most COVID-19 cases in vaccinated people. That makes it hard to know how dangerous Delta really is.

This suggests that the CDC was no longer interested in tracking vaccinated cases, but continued tracking only unvaccinated cases. Could there be a political or ideological motive behind this?

How accurate are cases, anyway? Since most people who get sick don't get tested and don't go to the doctor or hospital, is it possible to accurately know how many cases of covid-19 the population has? Are statistics always accurate or is it possible for them to be wrong?

WE WERE RIGHT: In August 2020 TGP Reported Per the CDC that COVID Deaths Were Overcounted – Now Lawmakers Want Federal Grand Jury to Investigate

October 12, 2021, 2:45pm by Joe Hoft 634 Comments

“14 days” statistics. How does the CDC count vaccine ‘deaths’ and can we trust the statistics?

A mortality/morbidity report by the CDC for Los Angeles County revealed the following:

Persons were considered fully vaccinated ≥ 14 days after receipt of the second dose in a 2-dose series (Pfizer-BioNTech or Moderna COVID-19 vaccines) or after 1 dose of the single-dose Janssen (Johnson & Johnson) COVID-19 vaccine; partially vaccinated ≥ 14 days after receipt of the first dose and < 14 days after the second dose in a 2-dose series; and unvaccinated < 14 days receipt of the first dose of a 2-dose series or 1 dose of the single-dose vaccine or if no vaccination registry data were available.^{xi}

This seems like a roundabout way to say that they didn't report the deaths as vaccinated deaths or death by vaccination if less than 14 days from the day they were vaccinated. Some feel this is a shocking admission. This means that 90% or more of the deaths from the covid-19 “vaccine” are not reported, but instead are reported as unvaccinated covid-19 deaths? Is this an honest way of reporting and could there be a motive behind this?

Is it possible that multiples of people are dying from the experimental vaccination and it is not even reported? But instead, the numbers are used to justify further vaccination and potential further death? Is this an example of how the CDC is counting all “covid-19 deaths” in the country?

Notice in the following document in fine print how it admits that deaths after a vaccine aren't counted until 14 days pass. They count these deaths and 'under vaccinated' deaths as 'unvaccinated' deaths. Is an accurate and honest way to report this or could it mislead people?

Discussion

The results of this population-based analysis using linked SARS-CoV-2 infection surveillance and vaccination registry data indicate that fully vaccinated persons aged ≥16 years with SARS-CoV-2 infection were less likely than unvaccinated persons to be hospitalized, to be admitted to an intensive care unit, to require mechanical ventilation, or to die from SARS-CoV-2 infection during a period when the Delta variant became predominant. Although age-adjusted hospitalization rates in partially vaccinated persons were similar to those in fully vaccinated persons, age-adjusted incidences were slightly lower in partially vaccinated persons than in fully vaccinated persons. These data indicate that authorized vaccines protect against SARS-CoV-2 infection and severe COVID-19, even with increased community transmission of the newly predominant Delta variant (2).

The SARS-CoV-2 Delta variant is highly transmissible (3) and became the predominant variant in Los Angeles County during May–July 2021. During this period, SARS-CoV-2 cases and hospitalizations increased substantially, most notably among unvaccinated persons. In May, specimens from fully vaccinated and partially vaccinated persons had higher Ct values for two gene targets compared with unvaccinated persons; however, by July, median Ct values had decreased and were similar in all gene regions in specimens from fully vaccinated, partially vaccinated, and unvaccinated persons.

CDC admits it DID overcount Florida's COVID cases: Agency revises state's weekend numbers down from 28,000 to 19,000 but offers no explanation after falsely claiming 'record' infections

The CDC has revised COVID-19 figures from the state of Florida after the Sunshine State's department of health accused the federal agency of overcounting cases over the weekend.

Real Developments

@pdubdev

According to CDC, 99% of people over 65 are vaxxed.

Yet 80% of recent Covid deaths are 65 plus.

so the Gov claim that almost all Covid deaths are in the unvaxxed is a complete lie. Statically impossible.

This particular study of 220,517 covid-19 patients determined that using ivermectin cut the risk of death nearly in half. Is this true? If so, why isn't this treatment considered? Some say that ivermectin doesn't financially benefit large pharmaceutical companies as much as the "vaccines." Is this true?

Abstract

Aim: COVID-19 is currently the biggest threat to mankind. Recently, ivermectin (a US FDA-approved antiparasitic drug) has been explored as an anti-SARS-CoV-2 agent. Herein, we have studied the possible mechanism of action of ivermectin using in silico approaches. Materials & methods: Interaction of ivermectin against the key proteins involved in SARS-CoV-2 pathogenesis were investigated through molecular docking and molecular dynamic simulation. Results: Ivermectin was found as a blocker of viral replication, protease and human TMPRSS2, which could be the biophysical basis behind its antiviral efficiency. The antiviral action and ADMET profile of ivermectin was on par with the currently used anticoronavirals such as hydroxychloroquine and remdesivir. Conclusion: Our study enlightens the candidature of ivermectin as an effective drug for treating COVID-19.

Recommendation

- There is insufficient evidence for the COVID-19 Treatment Guidelines Panel (the Panel) to recommend either for or against the use of ivermectin for the treatment of COVID-19. Results from adequately powered, well-designed, and well-conducted clinical trials are needed to provide more specific, evidence-based guidance on the role of ivermectin in the treatment of COVID-19.

NIH says ivermectin is FDA-approved, “widely used and is generally well tolerated” and is listed in “World Health Organization’s Model List of Essential Medicines.” Despite it winning the Nobel prize and having 40 years of safety data across millions of patients, it says more clinical trials are needed to provide “more specific, evidence-based guidance on the role of ivermectin in the treatment of Covid-19.”

They seemed to admit the importance of clinical trials and safety, but is the same standard being used for the covid-19 “vaccines” that have only existed less than 2 years with very limited clinical trials? Why would it feel comfortable pushing one with very limited clinical trials and with record numbers of injuries reported over one with a 40-year positive and safe track record?

Well, well, well...look at what the hell just surfaced

🔒 nw-connection.com

The Virology Journal – the official publication of Dr. Fauci's National Institutes of Health – published what is now a blockbuster article on August 22, 2005, under the heading – get ready for this – “Chloroquine is a potent inhibitor of SARS coronavirus infection and spread.” (Emphasis mine throughout.) Write the researchers, “We report...that chloroquine has strong antiviral effects on SARS-CoV infection of primate cells. These inhibitory effects are observed when the cells are treated with the drug either before or after exposure to the virus, suggesting both prophylactic and therapeutic advantage.”

This means, of course, that Dr. Fauci has known for 15 years that chloroquine and its even milder derivative hydroxychloroquine (HCQ) will not only treat a current case of coronavirus (“therapeutic”) but prevent future cases (“prophylactic”). So HCQ functions as both a cure and a vaccine. In other words, it's a wonder drug for coronavirus. Said Dr. Fauci's NIH in 2005, “concentrations of 10 μ M completely abolished SARS-CoV infection.” Fauci's researchers add, “chloroquine can effectively reduce the establishment of infection and spread of SARS-CoV.”

Dr. Fauci recommended HCQ in 2005 and said it “completely abolished SARS-CoV infection.”

11. Credibility of Dr. Fauci

History of claims by “health experts” and the CDC

Despite Fauci’s claims that those vaccinated didn’t need to wear masks and wouldn’t spread covid-19, on July 30, the CDC admitted that those vaccinated were spreading covid-19 (which they started called Delta) and still needed to wear masks. Is it possible that they were motivated to change the name of the virus so that those vaccinated didn’t feel duped about it not protecting them against covid-19?

Bacterial Pneumonia Caused Most Deaths in 1918 Influenza Pandemic

Implications for Future Pandemic Planning

The majority of deaths during the influenza pandemic of 1918-1919 were not caused by the influenza virus acting alone, report researchers from the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases (NIAID), part of the National Institutes of Health. Instead, most victims succumbed to bacterial pneumonia following influenza virus infection. The pneumonia was caused when bacteria that normally inhabit the nose and throat invaded the lungs along a pathway created when the virus destroyed the cells that line the bronchial tubes and lungs.

A future influenza pandemic may unfold in a similar manner, say the NIAID authors, whose paper in the Oct. 1 issue of The Journal of Infectious Diseases is now available online. Therefore, the authors conclude, comprehensive pandemic preparations should include not only efforts to produce new or improved influenza vaccines and antiviral drugs but also provisions to stockpile antibiotics and bacterial vaccines as well.

The work presents complementary lines of evidence from the fields of pathology and history of medicine to support this conclusion. "The weight of evidence we examined from both historical and modern analyses of the 1918 influenza pandemic favors a scenario in which viral damage followed by bacterial pneumonia led to the vast majority of deaths," says co-author NIAID Director Anthony S. Fauci, M.D. "In essence, the virus landed the first blow while bacteria delivered the knockout punch."

Fact check: No evidence mask wearing will cause bacterial pneumonia

By Reuters Staff

4 MIN READ

A graphic shared on social media falsely suggests that wearing a mask will cause bacterial infections and hypoxia, a condition in which the body's cells do not receive enough oxygen.

What is their evidence for having 'no evidence'?

mayoclinichealthsystem.org/hometown-health/speaking-of-health/debunked-myths-a

3. Myth: Wearing a mask will increase the amount of carbon dioxide I breathe and will make me sick.

For many years, health care providers have worn masks for extended periods of time with no adverse health reactions. The CDC recommends wearing cloth masks while in public, and this option is very breathable. There is no risk of hypoxia, which is lower oxygen levels, in healthy adults. Carbon dioxide will freely diffuse through your mask as you breathe.

If you feel uncomfortable in your mask, try to limit your talking and breathe through your nose. That will reduce the humidity level in your mask.

The Mayo Clinic say masks have no risk of CO₂ toxicity because it's breathable (the holes are big enough), but we're also told that masks work by 'blocking' the virus. Because the virus is many times smaller than the holes in a typical cloth mask and passes through freely, why would anyone assume a mask can "block" viruses?

How does this writer know for “fact” that masks don’t cause bacterial pneumonia? Does this writer use the same standard for things she likes or dislikes?

1918 masks required: 675,000 estimated deaths in United States, mostly from pneumonia^{xiii}

2020-21 masks required: 750,000 reported deaths in the United States, 50% from flu/pneumonia.

Since masks were required in 1918 and because most of the deaths were from bacterial pneumonia, and because masks are required now, and because many are also dying of bacterial pneumonia, and because pneumonia is caused by breathing in bacteria, and because masks promote bacteria growth by placing moisture from nose and saliva in close proximity to your nose and mouth for an extended period of time, is it irrational to consider that these could possibly be linked? Why would the media so quickly claim that masks don’t promote bacterial pneumonia without any evidence? What are there alternative reasons for so many people dying of bacterial pneumonia then, both in 1918 and in 2020-21? Wouldn’t it be foolish to repeat the same mistakes of the past? Currently our response to fear appears to be the same and currently it seems to be achieving similar results.

How can we be assured that a % of the deaths aren't from the wearing of masks? What studies have been done to prove that repeated mask use is actually safe?

“The press may not be successful much of the time in telling people what to think, but it is stunningly successful in telling its readers what to think about”
Bernard Cohen, 1963

13. Media honesty

Has any reporter in the media ever lied before? How do we know for certain when they are lying or telling the truth? Does the media ever change their narrative based on politics or ideology?

Do these articles from the same news source reflect a change in narrative over time?

People vaccinated against Covid-19 less likely to die from any cause, study finds

By Maggie Fox, CNN

Updated 6:49 PM EDT, Fri October 22, 2021

Is this headline true or is it propaganda? Since vaccine health effects usually take 10 years to complete, and since that hasn't happened, how can they be 100% sure that all covid-19 vaccinated people are "less likely to die?" Surely this isn't motivated by a pro-vaccine bias, is it? Are readers to believe that with the vaccine they are less likely to fall off ladders, less likely to get in car accidents, less likely to develop cancer from smoking, less likely to die of Alzheimer's, or from drug overdoses? Did this conclusion by Maggie Fox of CNN follow the scientific method or was it motivated by other forces?

What extensive studies have been conducted to prove this? What about all the people that VAERS reports who died after the covid-19 injection?

A bike rally is claimed by left-leaning media to be a likely “superspreader,” but claims that large groups of migrants encamped at the border has “no evidence” of spreading the virus. If the bikers were at the border and the migrants were in a motorcycle rally would their stories still have the same conclusion? Could these articles possibly be biased by political or ideological beliefs?

For 20 months we've covered behind masks, scrubbed ourselves with hand sanitiser and socially distanced to avoid Covid — now most people are vaccinated, experts are telling us we need to prepare to catch the virus.

It sounds counterintuitive but the argument is if you are vaccinated and catch Covid, you are unlikely to get seriously ill or go to hospital and getting the virus will further boost your immunity.

Fox News host Will Cain falsely claims vaccine more dangerous for children than COVID-19

IF YOUR TIME IS SHORT

- Doctors who spoke to PolitiFact said children are far more likely to be hospitalized from COVID-19 than from the vaccine. The CDC says “the known risks of COVID-19 illness ... far outweigh the potential risks of having a rare adverse reaction to vaccination.”
- Fox News host Will Cain cited data that the doctors said was cherry-picked, including COVID-19 hospitalization data that was an undercount and vaccine safety data that is subject to many limitations and cannot be used to determine causality.
- Anyone can make a report to the Vaccine Adverse Events Reporting System, or VAERS, making it a hotbed for misinformation about vaccine safety. The unverified entries in VAERS are not enough to establish a causal relationship between the COVID-19 vaccine and a hospitalization or other adverse event, experts said.

Our ruling: True

We rate the claim that hospitals get paid more if patients are listed as COVID-19 and on ventilators as TRUE.

Hospitals and doctors do get paid more for Medicare patients diagnosed with COVID-19 or if it's considered presumed they have COVID-19 absent a laboratory-confirmed test, and three times more if the patients are placed on a ventilator to cover the cost of care and loss of business resulting from a shift in focus to treat COVID-19 cases.

This higher allocation of funds has been made possible under the Coronavirus Aid, Relief and Economic Security Act through a Medicare 20% add-on to its regular payment for COVID-19 patients, as verified by USA TODAY through the American Hospital Association Special Bulletin on the topic.

Even leftist publications aren't denying the financial incentives providers have to label patients as covid-19. The following news article says hospitals will make 20% more if a patient is considered a 'covid-19' patient.

The screenshot shows a web browser displaying a news article from Healthcare Finance. The article is dated August 18, 2020, and is titled "CMS adds 20% to inpatient Medicare payment for COVID-19 patients". The sub-headline reads: "The guidance requires providers to document a positive COVID-19 test result in the medical record." The author is Susan Morse, Managing Editor. The article features a photograph of a healthcare worker in blue scrubs and a cap attending to an elderly patient in a hospital bed. Below the photo, the text states: "The Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services has announced new guidance regarding reimbursement of COVID-19 Medicare patients that will go into effect on September 1. If a Medicare patient has been diagnosed with COVID-19 and needs to be admitted to a hospital, the payment to the hospital is increased by 20% to reflect the additional costs of treating a patient with COVID-19." Doctor Reveals that Remdesivir Was the Real Cause For Many Alleged COVID-19 Maladies

August 7, 2021 by Edward Hendrie

Dr. Bryan Ardis makes an astounding revelation. He states that Dr. Fauci pushed the use of Veklury® (remdesivir) as a treatment for COVID-19 knowing that it would be unsafe and ineffective for patients. Veklury® (remdesivir) is a nucleotide analogue RNA polymerase inhibitor. Dr. Ardis reveals that the symptoms of lungs filling with fluid and the other alleged COVID-19 symptoms were actually side effects of kidney poisoning and other organ damage that are known side-effects of Veklury® (remdesivir). Dr. Ardis alleges that the devastating health toll allegedly caused by COVID-19 was actually caused by the NIH recommended treatment of Veklury® (remdesivir).

Dr. Bryan states that the NIH even cited two studies on its website that showed that Veklury® (remdesivir) was ineffective and unsafe to patients. It seems that many doctors just blindly followed the recommendation of the NIH to use Veklury® (remdesivir) without actually reading the cited studies. I tracked down those studies and read them.

NIH Recommends Remdesivir

On May 12, 2020, the NIH recommended the use of Veklury® (remdesivir) for severe cases of COVID-19. At that time, Veklury® (remdesivir) was an unapproved experimental drug made by <https://greatmountainpublishing.com> uthorized by the FDA for emergency use treatment of COVID-19.

Pfizer will have booked half a trillion in revenue between shots and the new pills before it's over. But no one would ever lie for a cool $500,000,000,000.

The screenshot shows a web browser window with the URL fda.gov/vaccines-blood-biologics/safety-availability-biologics.... The page features the FDA logo and navigation buttons for Search and Menu. Below the navigation bar, there is a section header "IN THIS SECTION: Safety & Availability (Biologics)" with a dropdown arrow. A breadcrumb trail shows "← Safety & Availability (Biologics)". The main heading is "Initial Results of Near Real-Time Safety Monitoring of COVID-19 Vaccines in Persons Aged 65 Years and Older". Below the heading are social sharing buttons for Facebook, Twitter, LinkedIn, Email, and Print. The date "July 12, 2021" is displayed. The main text begins with "FDA has routinely been using screening methods to monitor the safety of COVID-19 vaccines and to evaluate potential adverse events of interest (AEI) related to these vaccines. One of these methods, called near real-time surveillance, detected four potential AEIs in the Medicare healthcare claims database of persons aged 65 years and older who had received the Pfizer/BioNTech COVID-19 vaccine. The four potential AEI are pulmonary embolism, acute myocardial infarction, immune thrombocytopenia, and disseminated intravascular coagulation. The screening methods have not identified these AEI after vaccination in persons 65 years and older who received the two other authorized COVID-19 vaccines." The text continues with "These four events may not be true safety concerns, and the screening method cannot establish that the vaccine caused these AEI. FDA is sharing the initial findings of this safety study in the spirit of transparency but does not believe there is a cause for concern. There are alternative explanations for the findings, including the fact that the Pfizer/BioNTech vaccine was given to many high-risk individuals who were older and had significant co-morbidities." The next paragraph states "These events have not been identified as safety concerns or signals in the CDC Vaccine Safety Datalink \(VSD\) or the Veterans Administration (VA) Healthcare data systems screening methods. The Vaccine Adverse Event Reporting System \(VAERS\), another government monitoring system, also has not identified any association between any COVID-19 vaccine and these AEI." The following paragraph says "FDA continues to closely monitor the safety of the COVID-19 vaccines and will further investigate these findings by conducting more rigorous epidemiological studies. FDA will share further updates and information with the public as they become available." The final paragraph concludes "FDA strongly believes that the known and potential benefits of COVID-19 vaccination greatly outweigh the known and potential risks of COVID-19. There is no need to delay vaccination while the FDA continues its investigation."

The FDA admits 4 adverse events of interest (AEI) have occurred after covid-19 injections enough to report them. These appear to be deaths after the vaccine in people age 65 or higher. While the FDA admits these adverse events they also claim they can't confirm or deny a link to the vaccine. The same standard of not being able to confirm a link doesn't seem to be used for receiving the vaccine itself, however. It seems people by default assume it works unless they have a mountain of evidence it doesn't. Even then, it's unsure whether any such evidence is being considered.

Miscarriages

From December 14, 2020, to February 28, 2021, we used data from the v-safe after-vaccination health checker surveillance system, the v-safe pregnancy registry, and the Vaccine Adverse Event Reporting System (VAERS) to characterize the initial safety of mRNA Covid-19 vaccines in pregnant persons.

Results

A total of 15,691 v-safe participants 16 to 34 years of age identified as pregnant. Injection-site pain was reported more frequently among pregnant persons than among nonpregnant women, whereas headache, myalgia, chills, and fever were reported less frequently. Among 3916 participants enrolled in the v-safe pregnancy registry, 637 had a completed pregnancy, of which 115 (13.9%) resulted in a pregnancy loss and 712 (86.1%) resulted in a live birth (mostly among participants with vaccination in the third trimester). Adverse neonatal outcomes included preterm birth (at 9.1%) and small size for gestational age (at 1.2%); no neonatal deaths were reported. Although not directly comparable, calculated proportions of adverse pregnancy and neonatal outcomes in persons vaccinated against Covid-19 who had a completed pregnancy were similar to incidences reported in studies involving pregnant women that were conducted before the Covid-19 pandemic. Among 221 pregnancy-related adverse events reported to the VAERS, the most frequently reported event was spontaneous abortion (16 cases).

Conclusions

Preliminary findings did not show obvious safety signals among pregnant persons who received mRNA Covid-19 vaccines. However, more longitudinal follow-up, including follow-up of large numbers of women vaccinated earlier in pregnancy, is necessary to inform maternal, pregnancy, and infant outcomes.

The first coronavirus disease 2019 (Covid-19) vaccines available in the United States were messenger RNA (mRNA) vaccines: BNT162b2 (Pfizer-BioNTech) and mRNA-1273 (Moderna). In December 2020, the vaccines were granted Emergency Use Authorization (EUA) by the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) as a two-dose series, 3 weeks apart for Pfizer-BioNTech and 1 month apart for Moderna, and were recommended for use by the Advisory Committee on Immunization Practices (ACIP).¹⁻⁴ Pregnant persons were excluded from preauthorization clinical trials, and only limited human data on safety during pregnancy were available at the time of authorization. However, pregnant persons with Covid-19 are at increased risk for severe illness (e.g., resulting in admission to an intensive care unit, extracorporeal membrane oxygenation, or mechanical ventilation) and death, as compared with nonpregnant persons of reproductive age.⁵ Furthermore, pregnant persons with Covid-19 might be at increased risk for adverse pregnancy outcomes, such as preterm birth, as compared with pregnant persons without Covid-19.⁶ The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) and ACIP are collaborating with the American College

CDC manipulated study data to show the Covid-19 Vaccines are safe for Pregnant Women when in reality 4 in 5 suffered a miscarriage

BY THE DAILY EXPOSÉ ON JULY 6, 2021 (731 COMMENTS)

Labels: News

Data has been manipulated by scientists carrying out a real world study for the CDC to show that the Covid-19 vaccines are safe for use during pregnancy, however an analysis of the actual findings shows that 4 out of 5 pregnant women vaccinated suffered a miscarriage.

The study entitled 'Preliminary Findings of mRNA Covid-19 Vaccine Safety in Pregnant Persons' has been published in the New England Journal of Medicine. From December 14, 2020, to February 28, 2021, data from the v-safe after vaccination health checker surveillance system, the v-safe pregnancy registry, and the Vaccine Adverse Event Reporting System (VAERS) was used to characterize the initial safety of mRNA Covid-19 vaccines in pregnant persons.

The authors conclusion of the study is as follows -

Preliminary findings do not show obvious safety signals among pregnant persons who received mRNA Covid-19 vaccines. However, more longitudinal follow-up, including follow-up of large numbers of women vaccinated earlier in pregnancy, is necessary to inform maternal, pregnancy, and infant outcomes.

Facebook ends ban on posts claiming COVID-19 is man-made

Thomas Barrabi | FOXBusiness

Published on May 26, 2021

Facebook said Wednesday it would no longer ban posts suggesting COVID-19 is man-made amid mounting calls from President Biden and other officials for further investigation into the pandemic's origins.

What is the purpose behind Facebook's information censorship? Does its staff claim to somehow know the truth better than the average Facebook user? If they intend to remove misinformation, how do they know with certainty that they aren't censoring the truth, while actually promoting misinformation? Would that be considered a double standard if Facebook is guilty of the thing they claim to be against?

For example, if it is true that covid-19 was produced in the Wuhan lab and it leaked out, now that Facebook has already censored this information and promoted the "wet market" theory, would they apologize or retract their misinformation, or, would they let the misinformation continue?

We are intent on not letting Omicron disrupt work and school for the vaccinated. You've done the right thing, and we will get through this.

For the unvaccinated, you're looking at a winter of severe illness and death for yourselves, your families, and the hospitals you may soon overwhelm.

Is it normal for government officials to threaten citizens with severe illness and death if they don't obey and take an experimental injection? That threat ended up being false, as people who chose not to get the injection did not die in masses and did not overwhelm hospitals as claimed.

Asbestos! The magic mineral of the Middle Ages. Today, still a "magic" mineral; fireproof, rot-proof, and practically indestructible. When combined with portland cement it is manufactured into products which are especially important on the farm, because they provide permanent protection against fire, weather, and wear. This is an ad from 1937 saying that asbestos is a “magic mineral.” This was commonly accepted at that time and was not yet known to be a carcinogen causing lung cancer. US government agencies were complicit and allowed this substance to be installed in countless buildings. World Health Organization estimates that half of all workplace-caused cancer was from asbestos which may have killed 100,000 per year globally. Given the imperfect track record, could people be mistaken by trusting US government with their health?^{xivxv}

“Yes, but the vaccines are still safe though, right?”

If the vaccines are 100% safe, then why does Pfizer have their own adverse reporting system website dedicated to their covid-19 vaccine? Why are the reports kept secret? And since the CDC already has a reporting system, why did they decide to use their own?

The image shows a web browser window with the URL `pfizersafetyreporting.com/#/en`. The page features the Pfizer logo at the top. Below it, the title reads "PFIZER-BIONTECH COVID-19 VACCINE (also known as COVID-19 mRNA VACCINE BNT162b2 or BNT162) ADVERSE EVENT REPORTING". The instructions state: "Please select the following to continue:". There are two required fields: "Please select your Country location *" with a dropdown menu showing "Select Country", and "Select language *" with a dropdown menu showing "English". A red note below the country field says: "If you change the selected country during form completion, all report information will need to be re-entered." At the bottom of the form is a blue "Next" button. A red asterisk label "*Required field" is located at the bottom left of the form area.

Summary

To answer the question “Are ‘covid-19 vaccine’ safe & effective?” we reviewed dozens of sources of information, from the government, media, and from social media. We used the scientific method to review and analyze this information. Because there was evidence of tens of thousands being killed and millions injured from the covid-19 vaccine, we conclude that it not “safe and effective” as claimed. The red flags are everywhere. There is such a large amount of evidence showing it is unsafe through government reporting systems, media reports, social media and firsthand accounts, that we believe that those originally claiming the covid-19 vaccines are “safe” are intentionally lying.

But why would someone wish to deceive others into taking an unsafe vaccine that could harm their health? The first possibility is greed. Those in power stand to financially benefit greatly from such a declared pandemic. Another possible explanation is for selfish reasons: some may assume that if others take it, that it might somehow make them safer, despite the evidence not supporting that. Another possible explanation is that some felt it was virtuous to follow orders and take the vaccine, as if it was a societal duty.

Society has generally lacked compassion for those who choose not to take the covid-19 “vaccine.” Consider a frail elderly person who already had covid-19 and has natural immunity, has a heart condition, already takes other medication and doesn’t wish to risk her life to take an experimental injection. Or, consider a young child who, even if he catches covid-19, is practically in a zero-risk age category, so why would his parents want to risk his health to “inoculate” him from something he has practically zero risk from? People sometimes act irrationally and dishonestly when in fear, like scared animals in fight or flight mode.

Why do some people consider others sick until proven healthy? Why are people so afraid of a virus that according to some statistics appears to cause less harm than the flu? For those who are afraid, why don’t they simply stay home and keep their distance from others instead of going in public and demanding that others stay home? Those who try to force others into compliance usually aren’t the ‘good guys’, are they?

If people are so confident that masks protect them why don’t they wear more mask layers, rather than be upset at those choosing not to? Because the size of the virus is smaller than the holes in a mask and since people can breathe freely through the holes, why would the government demand such an ineffective cloth layer be mandated?

If the covid-19 “vaccines” worked, those with it would be immune from the virus and shouldn’t care what others do. Is it normal to accuse others who haven’t had a flu shot of giving you the flu? The covid-19 “vaccines” have not been proven to not stop the spread as originally claimed, nor has it shown to prevent anyone from catching the virus.

Why would people blindly trust a relatively untested substance recently invented within a year, but automatically distrust a 40-year-old, FDA approved, Nobel prize-winning medicine with hundreds of positive studies?

Why are people so afraid to investigate and publish the injuries and deaths from the experimental covid-19 ‘vaccines?’ Why does the mainstream media and social media filter and ban posts that question the effectiveness of the vaccines?

Health ‘experts’ have flip flopped on wearing masks, whether businesses should be open or closed, and have disrupted and harmed people as a result. Why have congress members defended big pharma and given them immunity from lawsuits?

Truth doesn’t fear being questioned; lies do.

It appears that misinformation and greed could be related to the root cause of this problem.

Each individual is responsible for his or her own decisions, not a governor, not the White House, not the CDC, WHO, or NIH, not congress people, not the media, not big tech social media, and not big pharma. Sadly, many have been harmed as a result of believing false information.

“...there are known knowns; there are things we know that we know. There are known unknowns; that is to say there are things we now know we don’t know. But there are also unknown unknowns- there are things we do not know we don't know.”
